Kinmath 2:08% the fact weekly

Kinmath, 2085, the fast western trot ter, by Marookus, is an ungainly, awk-ward-looking horse. When trotting at speed he goes with his head down be-tween his fore legs, and has been so edtween his fore legs, and has been so educated by his owner and driver, Mr. Raymond, that lines are hardly necessary to guide him in a race. All that he needs is talking to at any stage of the game. "Now, Cookey, eat 'em up" makes him go a 2-minute clip. "Get up' Cook," will make him break and run like greased lightning. Raymond does his own shoeing and caring for his horse.

statute was not to construe. No offic statute was not to construe. No official, not even the president, as Andrew Johnson had discovered to his sorrow, had any more right than an ordinary citizen to disregard an act of congress on constitutional grounds, though he had more opportunity. Only the judiciary could declare the law unconstitutional, no executive officer had that power. In matters of appropriations congress was supreme.

CASH FOR THE NEZ PERCES. Special precautions have been taken to prevent any trouble at the Nez Perces reservation in Idaho at the date of the paying out to the Indians there of the $600,000 appropriated for them by the last congress. Usually when it is known that a sum of money is to be paid to Indians, a crowd gathers around the reservation whose purpose it is to rob and swindle the Indians. For this reason a troop of cavalry has been ordered to camp at the reservation during the payment and preserve order. The commissioner of Indian affairs has also instructed the agent not to pay out any of the checks until the troops have arrived. The checks for the money left Washington yesterday and will not reach the reservation for several days. The Indians will be amply protected until they have cashed their checks and deposited the money in the bank.

Unantmone Parrota

An old maid once owned a parrol which gave her a great deal of trouble owing to its profanity and disagreeable remarks. She decided to ask her minister to lend her his parrot, which erred in being almost too religiously disposed in its conversation. The minister consented, so Polly the good went to visit Polly the bad. Some days later, upon entering the room where the parrots were, the maiden lady was greeted with the remark: "I do hope the old woman may diel" while the clergyman's parrot added: "We bech thee to hear us, good Lord."-St Louis Dispatch
